Northwest Construction Consulting Services, LLC

I had the pleasure of working with Brian Daniels and his crew at Pacific Northwest Construction Consulting Services, LLC, in a case involving a high-end residential home where numerous construction defects were claimed. Brian came highly recommended to me by reputable construction defect attorneys in the area. I found Brian to be hardworking, honest, and reliable. His years of practical experience in the construction trade and knowledge of national and local codes and the standards of the industry were invaluable in evaluating each of the plaintiff's claims. I also appreciated Brian's commitment to the case. He was extremely accommodating when asked to attend inspections or destructive testing on a moment's notice.

Brian's expertise, professionalism, and ability to clearly articulate his findings and opinions gave me confidence he would be persuasive to a judge or jury if a trial became necessary. I recommend you contact Brian and Pacific Northwest Construction Consulting Services, LLC on your next construction defect case.
